

Fictional Story Rubric

Name: _____

Category	0 points: You didn't do this at all.	2 points: You made very little effort.	4 points: You made some effort but it's incomplete.	6 points: You did this well, but with two or more errors.	8 points: You did very well, with only 1-2 errors.	10 points: You did excellent work! 100%!
The exposition and rising action in the story allows the reader to know what is going on and the setting in an interesting way.
There is a climax that is the turning point of the story.
There is falling action and a resolution with a clear ending with the conflict resolved.
There are significant changes, additions, or improvements from the first draft to the final draft using feedback from classmates and one's own revisions.
Characters are interesting, real and described using a variety of dialogue, actions, and descriptive words.
There are no careless errors of grammar, spelling, or punctuation.

TOTAL: _____/60 points

A Little Self Reflection

Describe the biggest change you made between your first draft and your final draft. What feedback from your classmate's was especially helpful?

What part of your writing assignment makes you the most proud? Why?

What is the area you want to focus on improving in terms of your writing for the next writing assignment?
