Weekly Learning Log

The Learning Log (LL) is all about demonstrating to the reader that you have complete understanding of a lesson from one of your academic classes. The goal when writing your LL is to clearly communicate a topic or idea as if you were teaching it to another person. Being able to write a proper LL shows that you, the student, have mastered the material you have written about and can help someone else to master it as well. This does not mean simply copying notes/the book, as that does not demonstrate YOUR mastery, but rather, your teacher/the author's.

A quality LL will demonstrate mastery of the topic and provide a clear explanation of the topic to the reader in one's own words, while utilizing important key terms and phrases from the lesson.
